

May we suggest...

Our patients have used the following garments after their surgical procedures and have reported a high degree of satisfaction. For comfort, fit, style and affordability, these garments have been rated better than “medical” compression garments. We encourage our patients to try these or similar brands and report their experience to us so that we may pass along updated information to our future patients.

(We have no financial interest in the manufacturers of these garments or the stores that sell them. This information is provided as a service to our patients.)
